Nr. 1: Maximize the Book in full screen!
=============================

<h2 style="text-align:center;">A) Adjust the font size according to your preferences</h2>

using the Zoom!

Every web browser has Zoom functionality; the only thing that differs from one browser to another is how it names and symbolizes for users the place where Zoom is placed:
Customize and control Google Chrome (Google Chrome), Menu (Firefox), Settings (Microsoft Edge) etc.!

*1 Zoom in Google Chrome browser!
My book is open in the "Book" Tab (see top left) full screen size (Maximize), at Pag. 1-2.
Click the icon in the upper right corner (3 vertical dots on the book's URL line (web address), Customize and control Google Chrome). My zoom was set to 100% [I know this because I had done it for a purpose other than reading the book]:

Now:

a) Click + in the Zoom line if you want the letters BIGGER,
b) Click - in the Zoom line if you want the letters SMALLER, until the font size is… to your liking; Zoom to my liking = 125%, as you can see on the Zoom line:

2 Zoom, if you use Firefox browser or Microfoft Edge etc., it's similar to what I did în Google Chrome browser!

3 Zoom in Windows for any web browser!

Just for … warming up click here: CTRL + (for Enlarge) & CTRL – (for Shrink)!
The book is also open in the Tab with the name "Book" in full screen size (Maximized), also at Pag. 1-2, and Zoom is set to 100% [I know this because I had done it; not seen in the screenshot below]:
a) Press CTRL key [keep it pressed ALL the time during adjustment]
b) Very short press the key + if you want the letters BIGGER, ORI

Very short press the key ‑ if you want the letters SMALLER.

You will see for a very short time in the upper right corner: 110%   ‑   +   if you want the letters BIGGER, ORI   90%   ‑   + if you want the letters SMALLER!

I did: CTRL + and here you see the result, Zoom = 110%   [upper right corner]:
Then I did: CTRL ‑ and here you see the result, Zoom = 90%   [upper right corner]:

Click + OR − until the font size is… to your liking; Zoom to my liking =   125%:

Brief Explanation:

What This Book with a Mouse Is

This book with a mouse has only the advertising part here.

I wrote the book in my native language, in Romanian. I have translated just this Advertising into English, but I will not translate anything else, because that is not a job for me, it is a job for a professional translator!
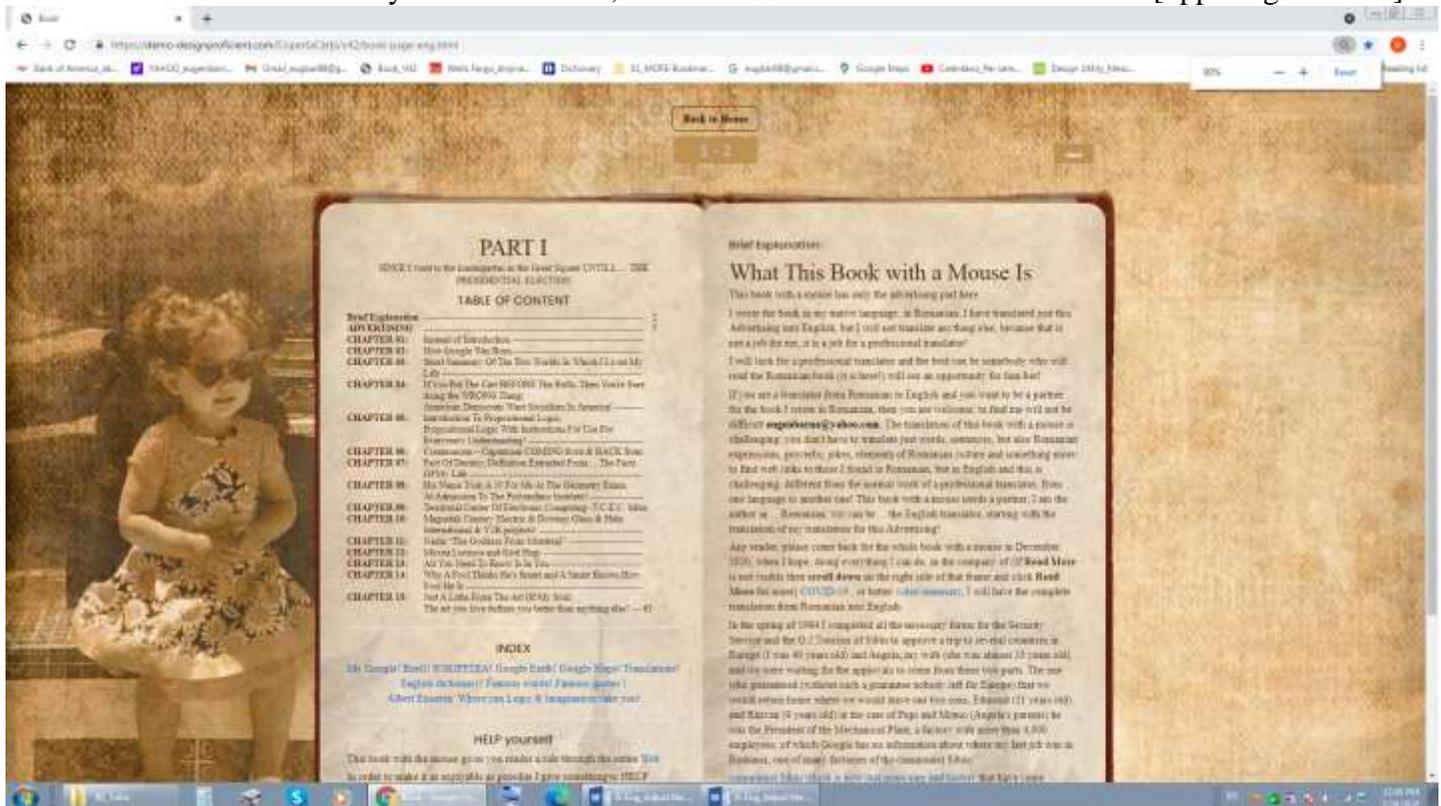

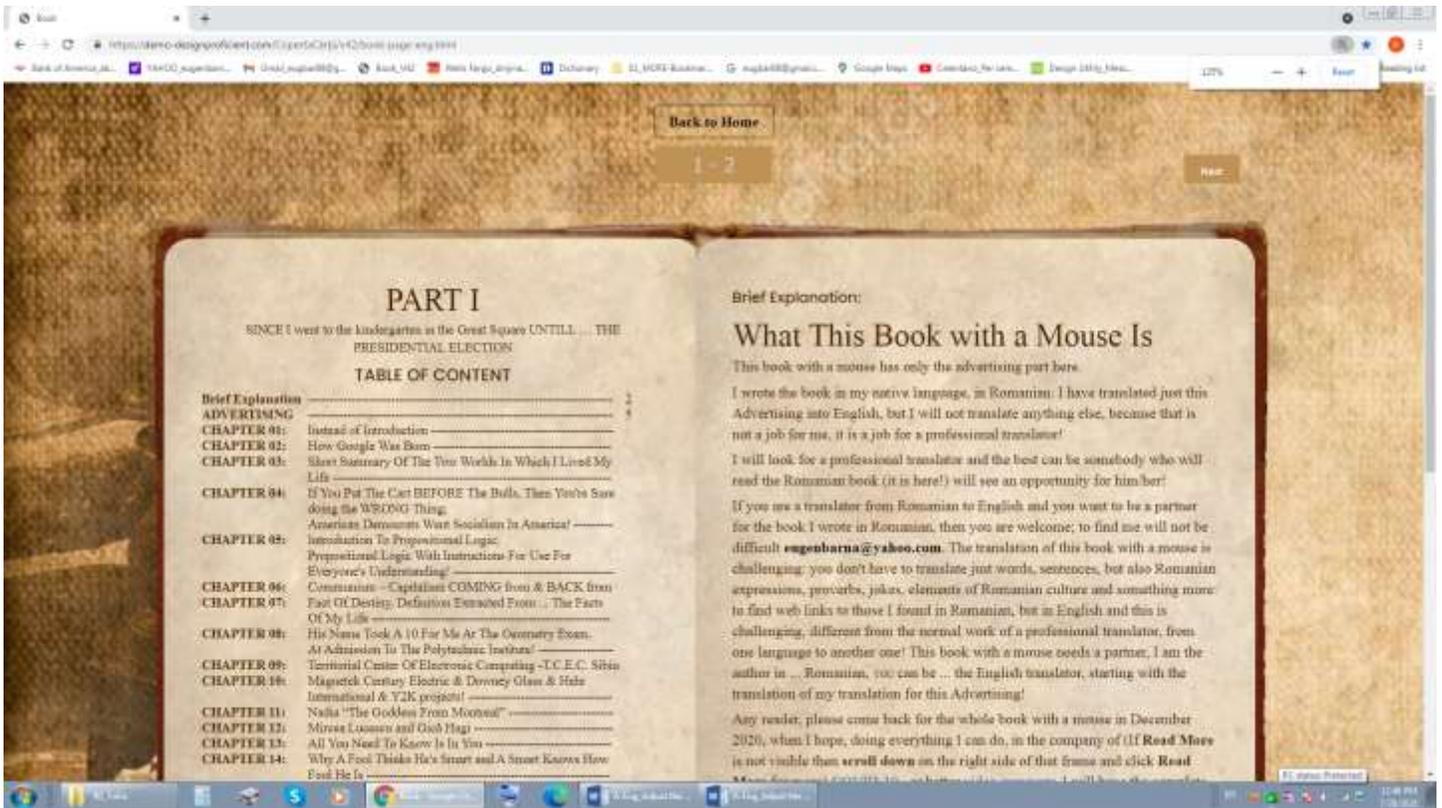

I will look for a professional translator and the best can be somebody who will read the Romanian book (it is here!) will see an opportunity for him/her!

If you are a translator from Romanian to English and you want to be a partner for the book I wrote in Romanian, then you are welcome; to find me will not be difficult eugenbarna@yahoo.com. The translation of this book with a mouse is challenging: you don't have to translate just words, sentences, but also Romanian expressions, proverbs, jokes, elements of Romanian culture and something more: to find web links to those I found in Romanian, but in English and this is challenging, different from the normal work of a professional translator, from one language to another one! This book with a mouse needs a partner, I am the author in ... Romanian, you can be ... the English translator, starting with the translation of my translation for this Advertising!

Any reader, please come back for the whole book with a mouse in December 2020, when I hope, doing everything I can do, in the company of (If Read More is not visible then scroll down on the right side of that frame and click Read More ...

Release the CTRL key (you tormented her enough)!

Choose from two methods (the browser where you read the book and Zoom in Windows) the one that suits you, after reading and possibly practicing how to do each!
The key is the size of the letters in the book to be to your liking!
